Short story of our garden

This Garden was planted by Saha family in the year 1929 in very adverse conditions. The Laboures were brought from Ranchi and Chota Nagpur. This part of the country before independence was undeveloped and known as Kalapani on land. This area was full of wild life and infested by disease like Malaria, Dengue and Kala Azar. During Colonial regime many rebellions were dumped here. This area also had a convict hanging place presently known as Phansidewa.

Special Features

This garden is last on Terai plateaus. Before partition this area was in Bihar State and later on during Dr. B.C. Roy's regime it was included in West Bengal. Because of the water flow pattern and location of the garden, the underground seepage water comes out and a portion of this garden has water logging problem.

A part of tea area has been planted with Assam broad leaf seed stock, teas made out of these leaf gives brick red color liquor which is preferred in Punjab, Haryana and Rajasthan. Recently we have acquired and planted about 20,000 plants of TRF-I clone of good quality and high yield from south India. A tea plant nursery and shade tree nursery has been raised of good quality and high yield clone. This part of the tea growing area has developed very erratic weather conditions and this garden faces acute droughty conditions due to shrinking of rain distribution. Fortunately we have good irrigation system which is being up graded as per requirement.
